HEMP INSULATION & ACOUSTIC PANELS

The Ideal Choice For Eco-Friendly Architects, Builders, and Designers

Built from renewable American-grown, industrial hemp, our insulation batts and acoustic panels set a new standard for sustainable building materials. Designed for thermal and sound performance, these products bring together natural fiber engineering and safety-certified performance, achieving Class A fire rating for commercial and residential use.

Our hemp fiber building materials are made from the strong stalk fibers of the hemp plant. Engineered for durability, they deliver exceptional insulation and acoustic control, with every fiber working to balance temperature, absorb sound, and promote healthier air quality—naturally.

From energy-efficient walls to acoustically balanced interiors, hemp fiber insulation and acoustic panels deliver performance you can feel good about—safe, sustainable, and ready to build the future of green construction.
